Learning Matters, 2013 2013 Ann Gravells

The Level 3 Award in Education & Training Course is aimed at those wanting to teach in the lifelong learning sector, or those already teaching within the sector who do not have the relevant qualifications. It is designed: For individuals who work, or want to work as teachers/trainers in the further education and skills sector. For individuals who are not in a teaching/training role, or who have just started a teaching/training role. For individuals who want a short qualification to enable them to make career choices. For individuals who have already achieved some Learning and Development units that can be carried forward into this qualification. For individuals currently working as assessors, who wish to achieve a qualification that provides an introduction to teaching. While the qualification textbook Award in Education and Training: The Comprehensive Course Companion provides the information needed to ensure you pass the qualification, this textbook seeks to ensure you fully understand how to apply that information effectively to your assessment(s). This will reduce the risk of you misunderstanding, over-answering or under-answering a question or task and provide you with a. It also includes practical suggestions related to practice in the sector, what to focus on in your response, how to structure the response and further sources of information or guidance to consult or reference in order to support your answer. This textbook The teaching, assessment and quality assurance qualification titles change over time. Ann has written books in the past which reflect these titles and has updated them when they have changed. However, the content of the qualifications and the job roles which teachers, assessors and quality assurers carry out remain very much the same. Ann has now written three generic books aimed at covering all the teaching, assessment and quality assurance qualifications as well as the relevant job roles.
