Finally, learn to write decimal words. When writing number words the only place "and" ever occurs is at the decimal. Like 45.32 is written forty-three and thirty-two hundredths. Another thing that can be confusing is that you go right to tenths in decimals. I let them pick the number word they wanted to spell and their siblings corrected any mistakes. In this way I could see which spellings each child was most comfortable with and maybe what they were avoiding. I gave out rewards for spelling attempts, which is another way to add interest and motivation. They are written on checks, sometimes on signs or ads, in books, and sometimes in the newspaper.
