

Financial Reporting and Global Capital Markets: A History of the International Accounting Standards Committee, 1973-2000. OUP Oxford, 2007. 9780199296293. 2007. 702 pages.

Kees Camfferman, Stephen A. Zeff

Citation. Roberts, A. (2008), "Financial Reporting and Global Capital Markets: A History of the International Accounting Standards Committee, 1973-2000", Pacific Accounting Review, Vol. 20 No. 3, pp. 282-283. <https://doi.org/10.1108/01140580810920254>. Download as .RIS. Publisher. You may be able to access teaching notes by logging in via Shibboleth, Open Athens or with your Emerald Account. Login. If you would like to contact us about accessing teaching notes, click the button and fill out the form. Contact us. To read the full version of this content please select one of the options below. You may be able to access this content by logging in via Shibboleth, Open Athens or with your Emerald Account. Login. To rent this content from Deepdyve, please click the button. Financial Reporting and Global Capital Markets: A History of the International Accounting Standards Committee, 1973-2000 [Camfferman, Kees, Zeff, Stephen A.] on Amazon.com. *FREE* shipping on qualifying offers. Financial Reporting and Global Capital Markets: A History of the International Accounting Standards Committee, 1973-2000. Kees Camfferman is Professor of Financial Accounting at the Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, and a qualified auditor (the Netherlands). His research, published in several international academic journals, is focused on the development of financial reporting practices and of the institutional framework of financial reporting from the 19th century to the present. The International Accounting Standards Committee (IASC) was the organization that pioneered this process on a world-wide basis. It examines the history of the IASC from 1973 to 2000, including its foundation, operation, changing membership and leadership, achievements and setbacks, the development of its standards, and its restructuring leading up to the creation of the IASB in 2001. The book also studies the impact of the IASC's standards on national standard setting and on accounting practice in developed and developing countries, as well as the impact on the IASC of the policies and positions of the UN, the OECD, the US Securities and Exchange Commission, the International Organization of Securities Commissions The International Accounting Standards Committee (IASC) was the organization that pioneered this process on a world-wide basis. The IASC prepared the way for the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) and its International Financial Reporting Standards, which since 2005 have held the dominant influence over the financial reporting of thousands of listed companies in the European Union, as well as in many other countries. It examines the history of the IASC from 1973 to 2000, including its foundation, operation, changing membership and leadership, achievements and setbacks, the development of its standards, and its restructuring leading up to the creation of the IASB in 2001.