Finally, welfare policy needs to address the causes of poverty, not merely the symptoms. Among families with children, the collapse of marriage and erosion of the work ethic are the principal long-term causes of poverty. Abstract: The Census Bureau's annual poverty report presents a misleading picture of poverty in the United States. Few of the 46.2 million people identified by the Census Bureau as being "in poverty" are what most Americans would consider poor—lacking nutritious food, adequate warm housing, or clothing. Exaggerating the extent and severity of hardships will not benefit society, the taxpayers, or the poor. Higher education was designed for men in colonial America. Since the 1800s women's positions and opportunities in the educational sphere have increased. Since the late 1970s and early 1980s, women have surpassed men in number of bachelor's degrees and master's degrees conferred annually in the United States and women have continuously been the growing majority ever since, making men a continuously shrinking minority to earn either degrees. The same asymmetry has occurred with Doctorate degrees since British education emas us to develop fully the abilities of individuals, for their own benefit and of society as a whole. Compulsory schooling takes place between the ages of 5 and 16, but some pupils remain at school for 2 years more, to prepare for further higher education. Post school education is organized flexibly, to provide a wide range of opportunities for academic and vocational education and to continue studying through out life. Administration of state schools is decentralised. The work is based upon the pupils interests as far as possible. The junior stage extends over four years. Children have set.
